

11 Escaped Convicts Still at Large After Releasing Hostages

Superior Court released from Kansas State Penitentiary Release Three Women Unharmed—Warden and Two Guards Also Freed.

Pleasanton, Kas., May 31 (AP).—The three women taken as hostages by five of the 11 convicts who escaped yesterday from the Kansas penitentiary at Lansing, were safe here today.

Miss Louise Wood, one of the hostages, said the five convicts released them from a motorcar near Pleasanton at 10 p. m. last night.

They went to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. George New, she said, and John Fletcher, a deputy sheriff, was called.

Miss Wood said the convicts did not harm them.

Lansing, Kas., May 31 (AP).—Eleven desperate escaped convicts from the Kansas State Penitentiary were at large today and with five of them presumably were three women hostages, taken, with their motorcar which the men commandeered in flight.

While Oklahoma officers marshaled their forces to seek six of the men who released Warden Kirk Prather and two guards in the wild, hill country near Welch, Okla., Kansas officers said they had no trace of the other five. The group was last reported seen near Victory Junction, a short distance from the prison.

At the mercy of the five were Mrs. M. J. Wood, 38, invalid wife of a Kansas City, Kas., railroad man; their daughter, Louise, 17, and Clarice Weir, a girl child. They forced Wood from her motorcar while she and the women were on their way to decorate a grave.

Crossed To Oklahoma.

After a half day of hard driving, during which time they commandeered several motorcars, the six with their hostages, crossed the southern border of the state into Oklahoma. The old stamping ground of Wilbur Underhill, 30-year-old gunman and murderer, Underhill is the supposed leader of the fleeing convicts who yesterday selected a thrilling part of a Memorial Day baseball game to make the break.

Warden Prather and the two guards, A. L. Laws and John Sherman, were released about 10 miles from Welch and immediately began the return trip to Lansing.

One of the six, Harvey Bailey, known as the "golf course" bandit, was suffering from a broken leg, the result of a shot from the prison wall while the escape was in progress. Officers believed the next objective of the convicts would be medical attention for their comrade.

The warden gave a detailed account of the wild ride and credited his release to a bottle of whiskey the men had obtained. The drinks put the prisoners in a jovial mood and led some of them to confide their methods they used in smuggling weapons into the prison plant. They also disclaimed any connection with the other five prisoners in the plot.

Warden Prather said Underhill, serving a sentence for the murder of a Wichita policeman, frequently had threatened him with harm during the zig-zag flight through eastern Kansas.

BULLHEADS SUFFICIENT TO FEED A MULTITUDE

Shokan, May 31.—Lewis Thiel, main street poultryman, and Gould Personous, Church Hill farmer, made a big haul of bullheads from one of the cores of the west basin on the dark and stormy night of Monday. The boys, as a result of their nocturnal fishing expedition, now have about 30 pounds more of this old reliable piscatorial delicacy to salt away in barrels against the coming of a hard winter, a seven-year famine, or what will you. To get your share of the Ashokan bullheads, you have to know where they are and then go after them at night when the fish gather near the shore line of the cove, according to Mr. Thiel, who with his uncle, Isaiah Shullis, of Glensford, has caught enough fish during past 30 years to feed many a multitude.

SAN LAGER PAID $5 AFTER HITTING TRAFFIC STANDARD

Committed To Jail

Max Kaka, 34, of New York, a native of Hungary, was committed to the Ulster county jail Monday by Justice of the Peace M. D. Schoonmaker of Ellenville, to serve 12 days on a charge of violating the conservation law.

Released On Bail

George B. Teflow of 103 St. James street was arrested by State Troopers Tuesday on the Saugerties Road for driving a car while intoxicated. He was arraigned before Justice Walter Webber this morning and was released on bail of $50.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 31 (AP).—Treasury receipts for May 27 were $2,421,855; expenditures $1,045,425.31; balance $3,377,430.54. Customs duties for 27 days were $1,440,002.42.

Heavy Downpour Thwarts Parade, Indoor Rites Held

A heavy downpour Tuesday morning a little later than the scheduled starting time for the Memorial Day parade forced the cancellation of the march, but did not interfere with the program at Kingston High School auditorium, except for hurting the attendance.

The rain, which gave Major O. R. Hiltbrant, grand marshal, and Morton Finch of the American Legion, chairman of the Memorial Day celebration, no alternative but to call off the parade, drenched many of the prospective marchers and those who had taken places along Broadway to view the march.

Indications were that the parade would have been one of the best ever held had the inclement weather not interfered. All of the various organizations and groups that had promised to take part were ready to step off on orders from Major Hiltbrant and the turnout of spectators was remarkable although rain threatened from early in the morning.

The city hall lawn and that in front of the Kingston High School were points of vantage taken by the largest groups of those interested in seeing the parade, and when the rain came many ran to the city hall for shelter. Some also went to the high school auditorium, but not many. Those who did remained for the memorial exercises which were witnessed by less than 100.

Conrad J. Heltman, acting mayor, presided over the ceremonies, which opened with prayer by Albert H. Shultz, chaplain of the American Legion. John Canfield of the high school, gave the Gettysburg Address. Robert Hawley sang a tenor solo. Gertrude Heltman of the high school recited "In Flanders Field," the Hon. Roger Loughran gave the address, the audience sang "America

U. S. Delegates Off For London Parley

Washington, May 31 (AP).—The United States delegation headed today for the world economic conference at London with one final, terse instruction from President Roosevelt: get fast action, and cut the speeches short.

On that the diversified group of spokesmen and technical aides set out to translate into accomplishment Mr. Roosevelt's bold bid for world concord, stabilization of currencies, lower tariff barriers, higher prices, more credit, employment and business.

Behind their campaign at the conference opening June 12 were the painstaking consultations with foreign leaders at the White House and state department, upon which the President had staked much of his hope for success.

Boarding an early morning train to make the 2 o'clock (E. S. T.) sailing of the S. S. President Roosevelt, the group was headed by Cordell Hull, the secretary of state. The other delegates, some named at the eleventh hour, were James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for the presidency a dozen years ago and a friend of the League of Nations; Senator Kep Pittman of Nevada, and Representative Sam D. McRynolds of Tennessee, chairman of the Senate and House foreign relations committees; Ralph W. Morrison of San Antonio, Roosevelt backer and developer of power projects along the Mexican border.

Traffic Light Over Memorial Day

Traffic over the Memorial Day holiday season was comparatively light. Plans had been made by police in the city and throughout the county to handle a larger volume of traffic than developed. In the city the local police handled the situation well and throughout the county state troopers were on the job directing traffic and patrolling main highways to prevent violations.

Traffic toward the mountains beginning last Saturday was light, but steady until Tuesday, when traffic began to flow cityward again. Southbound motorists were more numerous Tuesday but there was no congestion. On route 9-W south of Kingston vehicles were moving at the rate of about 500 an hour Tuesday afternoon. This is nearly half the usual traffic of former years.

William McNamara, a Maryland 4-H club member, will tell about his experiences during club week at the University of Maryland, and how the instruction he received has helped him in his farm.

Hold Two Young Men In Connection With Rensselaer Robbery

Brooklyn Men Held at Fishkill When They Admitted Being in Rensselaer Day of Bank Hold-up—Still Seek Oklahoma Bandit.

Rensselaer, N. Y., May 31 (AP).—Two youthful suspects, held by state police at Fishkill, were to be questioned today in connection with the $2,000 bank robbery here Monday.

The employees saw all six of the band which invaded the bank and escaped with more than $2,000 after killing one policeman and wounding another.

The two men, John Ferraro, 21, and Joseph Manno, 19, both of Brooklyn, were picked up by troopers late yesterday as they rode on top of a truck loaded with merchandise. They admitted that they had been in Rensselaer Monday morning, troopers said.

District Attorney Harry E. Clinton said he would go to Fishkill today with other Rensselaer county and city authorities and two women employees of the bank to look over the two men and question them.

Meanwhile police continued to cruise the highways searching for the gang of bandits which they believe was headed by Charles Arthur (Pretty Boy) Floyd, notorious Oklahoma bandit. The six men, protected by a screen of pistol and machine gun bullets, raced through the crowded streets in a blue sedan after the daring holdup. The bank is located at a point where traffic is nearly always heavy.

SALES MANAGER HELD IN STUDY OF WIFE'S DEATH

San Jose, Calif., May 31 (AP).—David A. Lamson, sales manager of the Stanford University Press, was held in the Santa Clara county jail here today pending further investigation of the death of his wife, Mrs. Allene Thorpe Lamson, attractive executive secretary of the University Y. W. C. A.

No charge had been placed against Lamson, said by physicians to be suffering from shock and in a semi-hysterical condition.

Holiday calm on the Stanford campus was disturbed with the discovery of Mrs. Lamson's body, the victim of a violent death, in the bathroom of the couple's home. Her head had been crushed by a terrific blow.

TEXT CATERPILLARS ON TREES. PAINT BRUSH IN MEADOWS

Shokan, May 31.—The text caterpillars appear to be more numerous on the apple trees of this section than ever before. The pests are especially active in the vicinity of the wild cherry trees where they generally make their first appearance in the spring. Another nuisance now in evidence on scores of fields is the devil's paint brush, whose showy blooms will convert the meadows of this section into a riot of color before the end of the week. The paint brush apparently is on the increase here, being quite as prominent as the daisies and brown-eyed susans used to be in days gone by.

WEST HURLEY WOMEN ARRESTED ON MONDAY

Regina Delhardt, 65, of West Hurley, was arrested Monday and arraigned before Justice Minard Elmendorf of Hurley on a charge of burglary in the third degree. She gave bail in the amount of $100 for appearance before the grand jury.

The complainant is John Zellner, to whom some time since Mrs. Delhardt sold a property at Hurley. Later Mrs. Delhardt brought mortgage foreclosure proceedings and Zellner charges her with having entered the house and removed certain articles illegally.

Favored Customers Who Bought United Corporation Stock

Third List of Favorites Included About 200 Buyers—Names of Woodin and McAdoo Are Also on This List.

Washington, May 31 (AP).—Again the names of men that have been household words were written today into the record of the senate investigation of J. P. Morgan and Co., as being singled out by the huge bank for privileged purchase of stock at a bargain price.

The third list of such was presented, this one of almost 300 buyers in 1929 of stock in Morgan's United Corporation, a utilities shares holding organization for a total cost of some $7,000,000 below the market figure.

As on the previous two, which dealt with Allegheny and Standard Brands stock, the array included such prominent figures as William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury; General John J. Pershing, Senator William G. McAdoo, John J. Raskob, Norman H. Davis, Charles A. Lindbergh and John W. Davis.

A new name was Edgar Rickard, New York mining engineer in the public eye at times in the Hoover administration.

Dealing with 315,070 units of the stock, it was the third compilation which contained Woodin's name.

The list was identified by George Whitney, Morgan partner, who was called to the stand for the purpose. He testified there was no public listing of the stock at the time it was sold to the special clients.

Previous evidence has shown, however, that the sales were recorded as of January 21, 1929, when it was listed on the Philadelphia Exchange at $95. Morgan sold it at $75.

The sales occurred when Woodin and McAdoo were not in official life. Woodin was sold 1,000 units.

Senator LaFollette (R-Wis.) recently denounced these sales in the Senate as "gratuities" from J. P. Morgan and Company.

Resting his case in his hand at times in the packed committee room, J. P. Morgan followed the testimony closely and in silence.

There was an obvious stir in the huge hall, but he showed no sign of special notice, when at one point his company was shown to have made great profit by selling option warrants in United Corporation, for prices ranging from $40 to $47 which it acquired for $1 each.

Whitney testified that a block of 200,000 of the warrants, entitling holders to purchase common stock in the Morgan Holding Company at $27.50, were sold for $4,490,000.

Partners of the Morgan firm divided 1,500,000 additional warrants held by the banking house, he said.

Memorial Day Mass Held Despite Rain

Despite the rain, the annual Memorial Day Mass was held Tuesday in St. Mary's cemetery and was largely attended by many from Kingston and visitors from New York and other places who came here to decorate graves. The Very Rev. John J. Stanley, pastor of St. Mary's celebrated the Mass, responses to which were sung by the children's choir. St. Mary's Parochial School children marched to the cemetery in a body, headed by the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts of the school.

Ulster County Highway Program Adopted, Bonded Indebtedness Ended at Supervisors' Meeting

Two New Supervisors Take Posts—Treasurer Rice Reports—Loughran Reappointed Highway Superintendent—Four New Bridges on Program—Mt. Marion Bridge To Be Replaced—Old Armory Deeded To City—Bridge at Hurley Authorized—Number of Other Matters Considered.

Highway matters were the important thing which the board of supervisors acted upon at a special meeting held Monday evening at the court house. There were 30 supervisors present and a most harmonious meeting was held. For the first in a long time the highway construction program went through without any discussion and apparently everyone was satisfied with the program which will be carried out in the county this season under the direction of County Superintendent James F. Loughran.

James F. Loughran, county superintendent of highways, was reappointed to that office for a term of four years commencing June 3, 1933, at the special meeting of the Board of Supervisors which was held Monday evening.

Mr. Loughran, who is rated by state officials as one of the state's leading and most efficient county superintendents, will on June 9 enter upon his seventh consecutive term. It has been under Mr. Loughran's direction that the present system of county highways has been developed in the office of County Superintendent.

Prior to the law which established the office the county highway system was under the supervision of the state engineer.

City To Have Junior Symphony Orchestra

Beginning directly after the close of the public schools of Kingston in June, there will be set in motion a Junior Symphony Orchestra, made up of the boys and girls of the advanced grades and the high school, who wish to join the full Symphony Orchestra in the fall. Mrs. Florence Wolfert Cubberty, who has been appointed concertmaster of the Kingston Symphony Orchestra for the coming year, and who is a solo violinist and teacher of recognized musicianship in the community, will have charge of the training of the young people of the junior orchestra.

This offers valuable training in full orchestral routine which is a special kind of musical training very valuable for young musicians and of equal value to the symphony orchestra as promising recruits for the future.

Beginning next week Monday, all parents who wish their children to have this instruction are asked to communicate with Mrs. Cubberty, telephone 859-J, and she will give them the full information as to details of time, place, group work, etc.

Interested parents are asked to get the full information as soon as possible so that the junior orchestra may begin its summer study soon after the close of school. Probably the rehearsal will be one week-day afternoon each week.

Final Returns In Recent Repeal Vote

Albany, N. Y., May 31 (AP).—Final and complete unofficial figures on the New York repeal election, compiled by The Associated Press, show that the ticket favoring elimination of the 15th amendment received 85 per cent of the total vote of 2,170,490. The result was:

For repeal, 1,929,812.
Against repeal, 240,677.

The repealists list of 150 delegates, headed by former Governor Alfred E. Smith, carried all of the 62 counties except seven of the smaller ones in upstate rural sections. These were Delaware, on the southern slopes of the Catskill Mountain; Allegany and Tioga, on the Pennsylvania border; Wayne, Yates and Schoharie, adjacent to the overwhelmingly wet Albany county.

In three other counties, Washington, Otsego and Warming, also rural, the vote was close.

The 43 other counties returned heavy majorities for the wet ticket, ranging upward to a margin of 40 to 1 in the five boroughs of New York city.

American Heroines

By LOUISE M. COMSTOCK
Anne McNeill Whistler
THE little old lady who sits so serenely in James McNeill Whistler's famous portrait popularly known as "Mother," is familiar to most of us. Few of us perhaps know that lady to have been the artist's own mother, or understand how well she merited the immortality her son thus won for her.

Jessie was Anne Whistler's eldest son. As a boy he was slender and sickly. Always, it seemed to Mrs. Whistler, he was in need of his mother. At first James thought he would be a soldier, as his father had been before him, and his grandfather, the Capt. John Whistler who had founded Fort Dearborn at Chicago. At the end of two unhappy years at West Point, however, he decided to be a painter instead and set off for Paris to study.
During all these years Mrs. Whistler stayed close to her son, to be on hand if needed. In 1860, however, Jessie returned to Paris for more study and Mrs. Whistler crossed to this country for a last visit with her family in South Carolina before settling permanently where her son wished to live, in London. The year 1860 saw America plunged into civil war. Communication between mother and son became more and more difficult. Finally came word that the artist had returned to London. Mrs. Whistler became restless. Her Jessie needed her. She must be off to join him.
At this time, 1864, a Union blockade made it unsafe for any ship to leave a Confederate port. Friends pointed out to Mrs. Whistler that to attempt a trip to Europe was almost suicidal. But she was determined. She sailed from Wilmington on the Advance, a blockade runner bound for England with 2,000 bales of cotton aboard. The ship steamed cautiously out of port trusting the darkness to hide it from the 150 Union ships marshaled outside. A sudden flash of light as the heavy guns from Fort Fisher fired on a Union gunboat revealed its position, however. Immediately the entire Union fleet opened fire on the Advance. And throughout that frightful bombardment Mrs. Whistler, according to one of the crew, stood by a porthole, and even as a shell burst in the rigging, she smiled, confident they were "Goin' to get through all right."
Somehow the Advance did get through, the mother joined her now famous son, and lived to be the charming old lady of the portrait.

Mother's Cook Book

VEGETABLES
AS THERE are so many people nowadays who eat little or no meat, one may find what is called the "vegetable plate" in most restaurants which serve three to five different kinds, well seasoned and cooked and this supplies a good main dish. More and more vegetables is what our bodies need to give them the right kind of roughage, as well as the vitamins and minerals so important to health.

Creamed Celery.
Take the coarser stalks which are not perfect enough to serve as natural, cook in a very little water and serve with butter sauce, or with a rich, white sauce, adding grated cheese for variety. A few of the white tender leaves may be served scattered over the dish for garnish if desired.

Carrots in Parsley Butter.
Take eight or ten carrots, wash and scrape, cut into dice or into slices. Cook in a small quantity of boiling water lightly salted, until tender. Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one to two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of finely minced parsley. Pour over the carrots and serve hot.

Carrots and Apples.
Take six carrots and six apples (the tart kind), cut carrots into shavings and core the unpeeled apples; cut into one-fourth-inch slices. Place a layer of apples in a hot frying pan with two tablespoonfuls of sweet fat, cover with the carrots, season with a tablespoonful of sugar, salt and cayenne to taste. Cook, turning when browned to the other side. Serve on a platter with a layer of each, so that the layers may be lifted together.

Dandelion Greens.
Wash greens, cut fine with scissors. Place four tablespoonfuls of bacon fat in a frying pan, add one-fourth cupful of mild vinegar and a teaspoonful of salt. Cover after dropping in the drained greens, when wilted serve at once.

Calories and Thermal Units
A calorie is the unit of the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one gram of water through one degree Centigrade. British thermal unit is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water at maximum density through one degree Fahrenheit, and is equivalent to 0.252 calories.

Before Postage Stamps
Before the advent of stamps the payment of postage had to be made to cash at a time when the post office was open. The postmaster or one of his clerks marked the letter with the amount and the word "Paid" and the letter went forward as such. Without the word "Paid" collection would be made at the other end—the word "Paid" or the lack of it thus forming the basis of postal accounting.

All in good time, the full force of the opposition now stirring silently is sure to be disclosed, for no other political issue is more heavily charged with dynamite.

Heavy Downpour Thwarts Parade

On June 3, the birthday of Jefferson Davis, in Louisiana and Tennessee. My friends, when I was a boy Memorial Day, as it was first conceived, was a day commemorating the soldiers and sailors who served in the War between the States in the United States. Then, it meant a ceremony similar to the one we observe today. During the first years, as I knew it, many of the veterans of the war marched in line; a few rode in carriages. The faded campaign hat and the uniform wrinkled in service were treasures, shown with pride and seen with reverence. Then the Memorial Day address, as to battles, was replaced with references to Fort Sumter, Missionary Ridge, Gettysburg, Bull Run, Manassas, Antietam, The Wilderness; the heroes mentioned were Lincoln, Grant, Lee, Sherman, Stonewall Jackson. To me there has always been something romantic about the very mention of those names, coupled as they were with stories of the Old South with its chivalry and its traditions and associated with the respect we paid them yearly on a beautiful May day.

Then, in my boyhood, along came the Spanish-American war and I remember seeing the 14th Separate Company, later Company M, 1st N. Y. Volunteers, marching away. San Juan Hill, Guantanamo Bay, the sinking of the Maine, Santiago, Aguaduita and Roosevelt, Dewey and Hobbins became our heroes. Though reality took the place of imagination the war of the Confederacy still held its place as the real true cause for Memorial Day. Still later, in my young manhood, came the World War and both Appomattox and San Juan Hill gave way to the Alamo, Chateau Thierry, the Marne, Louvain, Liege, Ypres, Neuve Chapelle, Verdun, The Somme, Flanders, Cambrai and Jutland and both Stonewall Jackson and Teddy Roosevelt were temporarily displaced by Pershing, Joffre, Haig and Jellicoe. But as the years passed and the line of veterans who at first marched has grown steadily smaller and has taken to the carriages and later to the automobiles, our affection and respect for the men, in both the North and the South, who took part in the struggle of 1861 to 1865 has only increased.

Many bloody battles have been written into the history of this unhappy old world since the surrender at Appomattox. The surrounding arms of marching soldiers had indeed disturbed the peace of the world through all the generations theretofore and yet I believe I am well within the facts when I express the thought which is in your heart, as it is in mine, that no better soldier ever buckled on the armor of righteousness or fought more valiantly until the end or, having surrendered, kept the faith more scrupulously than did the soldiers of the North and soldiers of the South.

Those years when a shot fired at the old day aroused the anger of a great people, who can describe those historic years? The heavens suddenly went black. Pierce eagles of war flew across the liquid clouds. The awful storm rolled thunder along the sky. Reverberating, they shook the Atlantic coast and the banks of the Mississippi. They crashed over Antietam, Vicksburg, and Gettysburg. Forked lightnings played among the clouds over Lookout Mountain. Fire ran along the ground in Tennessee and in Virginia. Swamps and rivers were turned to night. It was the nation's mid-summer. The death angel was abroad with unhealed sword. There was a great cry in the land for there was not a house among half a million where there was not one dead. Four years the storm raged. The iron hail rattled incessantly, prostrating armed men and crushing women's tender hearts. It was a deluge of blood. Then the muttering thunders ceased; the clouds broke away and out of the blue sky a dove came and lo! in her bill was an olive branch. Almost three quarters of a century has passed. Peace still abides between the states. Peace, thanks to the brave men who purchased peace by their valor and their blood.

No people ever came into a better heritage than was bequeathed the children of America by the men who wore the Blue and the Gray. Shortly after the close of the World War a young officer who had been twice decorated for conspicuous gallantry on the battle fields of France, himself the grandson of a soldier of the Civil War, with much evident pride, said to me: "I believe our boys lived up to the best traditions of the War of the Rebellion." The world was straggled in a death struggle which would determine if liberty should perish from the earth. For four long years France and England and Belgium and Italy and all their brave troops from overseas had beaten in vain against that wall of German steel which drew closer and closer about them. And then, on the 21st of March, the storm broke anew and backward, still backward, the British fell, battered, crushed but still, thank God, not beaten. And then in May this same irresistible, apparently unconquerable, horde rolled back the French. Across the Aisne, across the Vesle, across the Marne. A mighty giant striking with that hand irresistibly, it seemed that the world was lost. A peaceful people, a peace-loving people, it had taken many months to put our boys upon the front. On the 15th of July the third great offensive started, designed, and well designed, to capture Paris and so crush the heart of France and end the war. At 11:30 on the night of July 14 the Germans laid down their barrage. All night long the very hills shook with the thunder of that truly awful storm. Then followed the smoke screen. The whole valley of the Marne, east of Chateau Thierry, was enveloped to screen the pontoons and when the barrage was lifted the Germans came across. Never were they more confident of victory, never more desperately determined to over-ride all opposition, to capture Paris and, with it, Peace. Three long days the Titans struggled in that Valley of Death, but the line held and on the morning of July 18 the boys went over up toward Soissons and the boys went over east of Chateau Thierry and that mighty army which came so near to the conquest of the world was pushed back across the Marne. Beyond the Vesle, beyond the Aisne, beyond the Argonne, back, back, always back, until the menace of the world was destroyed. What had happened? Had they encountered bigger guns and braver men and sharper bayonets? None of these. But better and greater and mightier than these they had met men saturated and soaked and inspired by the stories and traditions of a former generation who fought at Gettysburg and Shiloh and the Wilderness. It was true, as the young soldier had said to me, "Our boys lived up to the best traditions of the War of the Rebellion."

And so we, the descendants, relatives, comrades, admirers or friends of those who participated in any of these Wars are met today to pay reverence to their memory. May it ever stay green! And as each war has had its unknown soldier, representative of all the unnamed heroes, we may close with this reference to him:

Sleep on in solitary grandeur, Thou Defender of the Right! Through countless ages men like thee Have flourished in the fight! And though unnamed, but not unsung, With joy that love imparts We take thee on this day of days— Enshrine thee in our hearts.

Run It Out.
By TOM O'NEIL

The baseball maxim, "run it out," can be applied advantageously at times in contract. Struggle along with commitments that seem impossible of fulfillment and perhaps something will happen to turn a rout into triumph.

Here is a hand in which Augusta Dinwiddie of New Orleans made a highly optimistic little slam bid that could have been defeated. She succeeded by grasping opportunity when it presented itself.

Mrs. Dinwiddie, sitting South, opened the auction with a diamond. West passed to wait developments. North had little hope of going any where, but bid two diamonds in order to give South, who is not addicted to light openings, a chance to rebid.

East passed and South offered two hearts. North assisted the hearts and South then showed the club suit. North went to four hearts.

"Four no trump!" said South, feeling alarmed and showing that she had two aces and the king of a suit she had bid.

The no trump bid was stretching the convention a bit, since at no time had North done more than show nothing much in the way of tickets and to announce a preference for hearts over diamonds.

In answer to the four no trump bid North offered five diamonds as a sign off, hoping that South would stop and being doubtful of the possibility of making game in diamonds. South then terminated the auction by bidding a little slam in diamonds.

West opened the king of spades and it looked to the declarer as if she would be set, but she ran it out. The king of spades was ruffed in the South hand and the king of clubs led, followed by a club ruff in the North hand.

A low diamond was led. East played the nine and South the king. West dropped the queen, hoping that South would think that East held the jack and finesse against it. Another club ruff and North led a diamond again. The ace and the knave both fell on it.

So far fortune was very kind, but still the declarer could see little hope. Trumps were gone from the North hand and unless the hearts were divided 3-3 she was set.

The ace of clubs was led from the South hand, a spade being discarded in the North. The ace of hearts was led and then came the break of the game.

Intending to play the heart six, West accidentally dropped the spade five on the trick as well as the heart. The five of spades thereby became an exposed card, subject to the call of the declarer.

South promptly led to the king of hearts and from the North hand led the queen of spades.

On it she discarded the nine of hearts from the South hand and called the five spot of spades as West's card to follow suit to the spade queen. This permitted the making of the contract.

Alibi For Passing.
The dealer opened the auction with one diamond and everybody passed, including dealer's partner. Willard Karn. That is unusual for him, but evidently he expected fourth hand, vulnerable, to overcall with light holdings, as was his wont, and be penalized a player.

The declarer took all tricks but one without prolonged study, smokes, squeezes, coupe, end plays or any snappy stuff at all.

"I am an old auction player," alibied Willard.

Slam In a Void.
Julian Goldman dealt himself a spadeless hand. "One spade!" he bid promptly.

Three no trump from Julian, followed by four spades from partner and four no trump from Julian.

"Seven spades!" by partner ended the auction. He had six spades headed by ace-king-queen and the adversaries had three each. Everybody on the declarer's side was happy after the hand was played by trumpless Julian.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Baltimore, May 31. (AP)—Second Officer Carl Malmquist of the tanker Pat Doherty is a sailor with a wife in every port.

A week ago Malmquist had goodbye to his bride of three months as his boat sailed from Houston, Tex. Tuesday the same Mrs. Malmquist welcomed her husband in Baltimore and expects to be at Marcus Hook, her husband's next port of call. Mrs. Malmquist travels by automobile.

Bread for F. D. R.
Granfield, Okla.—Loaves of bread from this year's first wheat have been sent to President Roosevelt and Governor Murray by air mail.

Oklahoma City—Wayne Mcullen, 18, knows how it feels to be "sewed up," after an automobile crash, 55 stitches were taken in his face. His condition was not critical, however.

He Gets the Job.
Corpus Christi, Tex.—Jesus Martinez asked for work at the Reconstruction Finance Corporation employment office at Alice, Tex.

"Ace" asked officials. "One hundred and one," said Martinez.

Mops Up
Chicago—Others may use shovels, pickets and other forms of weapons ## for defense purposes, but not James Artington, negro. A mop he finds, does nicely.

He was busy mopping up a restaurant when a man allegedly bent on robbery entered and was promptly felled by one Artington James.

Swat and dirty mop. The intruder said he was Arthur Hanna, 22. He was arrested.

Blue And The Gray
Carbondale, Ill.—On the spot where Gen. John A. Logan first suggested that Memorial Day be set aside, the Blue and the Gray sat together for the first time since the Civil War.

A single Confederate veteran, Eldridge Shelton, 95, sat with the veterans of the G. A. R. at Memorial Day exercises.

After the Storm
Lake Andrus, S. D.—Residents of this town say a recent tornado moved part of Lake Andrus a half mile into Johnson's Bay, an arm of the lake that had been dry for 16 years. And that the fish were taken right along with it.

More Gloom
London—Dean Inge, whose gloomy pronouncements have made him world known, thinks England has seen the peak of her power.

"I don't want to be other than hopeful about our future," he said, "but I certainly think that as a great power England culminated in the nineteenth century."

The Captain Dejected
New York—Capt. George D. Burnside, for 40 years custodian of Grant's Tomb, is a bit dejected. Only three trumpeters and 150 other people braved Memorial Day rain to at## tempt exercises at the Tomb.

The Captain recalled other Memorial Days, with trumpets galore, confusion of crowds, and two-hour services consecrated by as many as a dozen ministers—with even presidents of the United States in attendance.

"The younger people don't take the interest like their parents," he said.

Experiments with lithograph paper conducted by the Bureau of Standards show that its resistance to tearing and breaking increases as the humidity goes up.

Commencement at Mohawk.

Commencement exercises were held Tuesday, Memorial Day, at the Lake Mohawk School for Boys. Diplomas were awarded as well as awards in athletics. Headmaster Kidder addressed the boys at the closing of the school for the summer recess and the boys of the school presented a play. Music for the exercises was furnished by Paul Zucca and his string quartet of this city.

The frozen fish business dropped about 15 per cent from 1931 to 1932.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 31 (AP).—Financial markets moved along in active trading today and for the most part were reluctant to abandon the advance.

Stocks had spotty profit-taking to absorb during the forenoon, but kept irregularly higher even while selling was in progress among numerous veterans. Metals and rails were the chief gainers. Cotton soared $1.50 a bale, then reduced its gains substantially. Wheat was fairly steady. In bonds, the trend held higher.

Copper shares were strong. Calumet & Hecla and Anaconda firmed more than a point, while U. S. Smelting and St. Joseph Lead had similar gains. In rails, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Calumet and Hecla and Southern Railway added a point or more. "Wealth" shares reacted early in the day, but reduced or cancelled to 2 point declines. American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Case, Du Pont and American Can slipped a point or more before stiffening. General Electric, Westinghouse and the Radio Corp. issues traded briskly at rising prices.

Two commodities, copper and oil, found developments encouraging. In the domestic market, red metal sold at 7 1/2 cents a pound, the highest price in months, while for the petroleum industry there was news of a reduction in crude oil output last week, as well as passage by the Texas house of a bill designed to curb production by taxing oil extracted in excess of quotas.

The financial community was kept in an inflation mood by the heavy vote given the Steagall gold resolution by the house, although favorable action had hardly been doubted.

PAYS FOR REGIMENT THAT'S NAME ONLY

London Custom Dates Back Nearly 300 Years.

London.—Forgotten ghosts from the time of Charles II still haunt property owners in the city of London, the historic square mile which constitutes the city proper, for the maintenance of a regiment which in fact does not exist, and has not for many years.

The custom is nearly 300 years old now, so it goes on just as it did when a military force was actually in being.

The tax is called the trophy tax. Charles II created it in 1662 after merchants and warehouse men in the city had created their own military force for protection against attack.

Charles had to pay for their training, so he passed the cost on to the local taxpayers, fixing the minimum amount for the company's use at £4,000 in 1662 and a penny, or somewhere around $25,332.50.

This is the figure at which the fund stands today, although there is no regiment to spend it. Instead, most of the money goes on a nice, modern barracks which could be used if such a regiment were in service.

To administer the money the court of Heutenancy was created, and its commission has been renewed each year since. The document itself is a fine piece of parchment tied in ribbons, with a round tin box about six inches across attached. Inside is the great seal of Great Britain and northern Ireland, half a pound of red wax.

C. F. Monckton has been clerk to the court of Heutenancy for the last 33 years.

"George III made the six regiments into two," he said. "Then George IV reduced them to one, and now the regiment, our regiment, does not exist except in name. A battalion of Royal Fusiliers, the city of London regiment, carries on the traditions of the Royal London militia."

The barracks, which are all ready for the London regiment, if and when it is recreated, is used chiefly to house offices of the territorial, the British militia.

SHOKAN

Shokan, May 31.—William Widdicom of New York city spent the holiday at his summer residence on the state road.

Arnold Dickinson of Poughkeepsie was numbered among the business callers in the hub of the reservoir section on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Labuda and children, Walter and Madeline, are included among the guests from New York city at the Shokan House.

The Labuda family are regular visitors to Shokan during the summer months. Mr. Labuda, who is in the trucking business, reports business fairly good in his line at present, though many firms have a number of trucks which are idle much of the time.

William C. Huench of the New York county clerk's office, was a week-end guest at the home of John C. Neil Murphy of Brown Station. Mr. Huench is a frequent visitor to the reservoir operating center.

Robert K. Story, Sr., and family of Brooklyn are sojourning at their country seat on Winchell mountain.

The usual Children's Day exercises will be held in the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, June 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Secor and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Secor of Kingston spent the holiday at their bungalow in the village center. The Secor properties here comprise a part of the old farm of the late Benjamin Secor.

On May 29, 1913, the Krumville school, taught by Mr. Regan, closed and it was announced that Miss Gertrude Regan of St. Lawrence county would succeed her brother as teacher of the school at the beginning of the fall term.

Recent guests at the Orchard Lunch Camp of John Moore in the west end of the village, were as follows: Albert Luckner, Mrs. Albert Peterson and two children, and John McKenna, all residents of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dibble of North Tarrytown came up Saturday to spend a few days at their home in the west end.

The local school children get Thursday afternoon off on account of the teachers' conference in the west side village.

Automobile travel over the Ashokan boulevards was fairly heavy on Sunday and through Tuesday. Fishing and picnic parties were numerous and many of the visitors patronized business places and lodging houses in the twin villages.

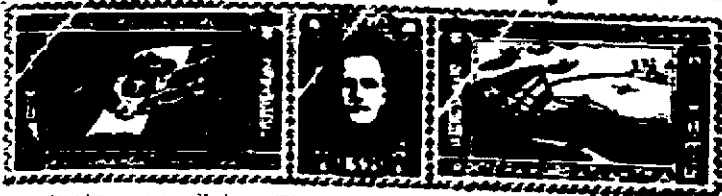

Mrs. Alfred Herschenroeder, of the mountain road, is reported as being quite seriously ill in

The WORLD of STAMPS

By GLENN JAMES

SOMETHING new in stamps is being planned by Italy for use on mail carried on the proposed flight of an Italian squadron across the north Atlantic to the Chicago Century of Progress exposition.

The first part shows the Italian flag and the second a portrait of King Victor Emmanuel. The third panel of the 50-lire stamp, to be used for letters to this country, pictures airplanes above Rome. The third of the 251, for letters to Iceland, reproduces a picture of chariot races, their forerunner of the ground.

In each case the second part covers ordinary postage and registration, and the third the airmail fee. An Italian dealer reports that small will be carried by 20 planes and that the name of the plane carrying each letter will appear on the first of the three panels.

Tripoli, Benghazi and Rodi are reported to be planning similar stamps though of different designs, for use on mail to be carried from these places to Balbo's planes at Rome.

Canadian Pictorial

A 5-cent pictorial was issued by Canada on May 18 to commemorate the meeting in Ottawa of the executive group of the World Postal Congress. The meeting was preparatory to the next session of the congress, to be held in Egypt in 1934.

The stamp, printed in blue, shows Parliament Hill as seen from the Ottawa river, west of International bridge.

Savings

Ten steps in postal history are depicted on attractive stickers advertising the International Philatelic exposition ("wips") to be held in Vienna, June 24 to July 9. The first is mail delivery by foot courier; the last, by inter-stellar rocket. Pardon—that makes nine historic steps and one prophetic. . . . Stamps valued at $8,500,000 are to be shown at the exhibit.

France plans a commemorative in honor of the late President Paul Doumer, assassinated last year. Announcement follows close on the heels of report that, for economic reasons, there would be no new issues until 1937. . . . Officials were criticized recently for not commemorating fourth centenary of birth of Rabelais, writer, creator of Gargantua.

San Marino, tiny republic claiming to be the oldest state in Europe, has issued six values—3, 5, 10, 12, 15, 20 lire—for mail carried by the Graf Zeppelin. They show the airship with country's shield as the background.

At The Theatres

Today.

Kingston: "The Working Man."

George Arliss, who doesn't know how to make a poor picture, is grand in this, his latest and perhaps most human screen characterization. This show has everything, realism, bigness, some of the best comedy of the year, and a plot that is understandingly lifelike and appealing. Mr. Arliss plays the part of a successful shoe manufacturer, and through his efforts, the orphaned children of his strongest competitor, are saved from failure and disgrace. He sees that they are running wild, so steps in under an assumed name and saves the youngsters from harm. Betty Davis and Theodore Newton play the roles of the children, and Hardie Albright is also in the cast. This show is told of a single risqué situation, there isn't a questionable line, but for entertainment value and enjoyable acting, it is a difficult show to beat. Four star entertainment, something for the entire family to enjoy.

Orpheum: "Child of Manhattan" and "Behind Jury Doors." Nancy Carroll and John Boles are the stars of the first talkie, a modern story of a poor girl in love with a wealthy man. "Behind Jury Doors" is intense drama, one of those court room, jury room pictures with more than its share of excitement and emotional suspense. Helen Chandler and William Collier, Jr. head the cast.

Broadway: "Hot Saturday." Nancy Carroll, Rudolph Scott and Gary Grant are all together in this modern story of a girl and her troubles with men. There are some interesting moments in this talkie, and the capable cast takes full advantage of every opportunity.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It seems there were clouds, beautifully massed and feathery clouds, as well as thunder over Mexico.

The clouds are prominent in the picture which takes its title from the figurative thunder that led to revolution and present-day industrial progress in Mexico as depicted by the Russian director, Sergei M. Eisenstein.

Silent except for musical accompaniment, "Thunder Over Mexico" is introduced with flashes suggesting the origin and ancient grandeur of the natives and then proceeds to relate its story of peon oppression.

Peon Tragedy

The story is of Sebastian, a peon working in the fields, and his betrothed, Maria. They must have the master's approval of their marriage.

Maria is attacked by one of the master's guests, and when Sebastian attempts reprisal he is punished.

He then leads a small band of peons in escape. They are pursued and in the fighting the master's daughter is killed. Sebastian and two other peons surviving are taken prisoner and condemned to the "punishment of the horses," a brutal death.

Then there is revolution, suggested but not screened, and modern Mexico appears in an epilogue.

Cinema art fans are acclaiming the film for its spectacular photography, and for its narrative technique. There is a dissenting group, however, circulating a "manifesto" protesting the picture as "a fragmentary and entirely conventional version of Eisenstein's original majestic conception," and insisting that only Eisenstein could properly assemble his own film.

This version was edited in Hollywood, and a Hollywood firm is re-

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results say not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results.

Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the drive-shaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car—its life-like response—is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon. Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense—initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,—color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.

Ray Kless, pitcher for the Napanoch Guards, allowing only three hits, shut out the Kingston Senecas Memorial Day at Napanoch by the score of 2-0. Mooney and Debusky, tossing for the visitors, were touched for five hits. So impressive were the Senecas that the Guards booked them for a double-header on July 4.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

It's possible to stir up quite an argument about the most versatile track and field performer in this year's college ranks, leaving aside the jacks-of-all-trades who engage in the decathlon and comprise a one-man team in themselves.

Princeton's Bill Bontrouth certainly stands out as the best all-around runner on Eastern tracks. The long-striding Tiger can do a fast quarter-mile and he has displayed iron-man qualities by racing 800, 1500 and 3000 meters on one and the same afternoon. At these distances he scored three victories against Yale.

Keith Brown, Yale's ace pole-vaulter, and George Spitz, New York University's great high-jumper, have been doubling up to keep warm as well as to gain additional points for their teams. Brown has cleared 6 feet, 4 inches in the high-jump and Spitz won the intercollegiate broad jump championship indoors.

Ben Eastman is the west coast's best all-around foot-racer, but Dink Templeton has not been able to take the wraps of the Stanford star since early in the season and it is still a question whether Ben will be at his best for the I. C. A. A. A. championship 400 and 800 at Harvard the last of May.

Ward Season's "Find" Meanwhile it seems to Dale Stafford, the Pontiac (Mich.) observer, that the University of Michigan has the outstanding track man of the year in Willis Ward, negro sophomore, who will carry the Wolverine colors in the East's blue ribbon meet.

"In the past Ward has been only a high jumper and 100-yard dash man; broad jump and high hurdles are new to him," writes Stafford. "He ran second to Metcalfe in the 100 at Drake and gave Jack Keller a great race in the high hurdles at Ann Arbor recently."

"He is only a sophomore and barring injury I am confident he will become one of the great track men of all time."

"Incidentally Ward will be playing left end on Michigan's football team next fall. He was a substitute last season, being first under study to Ivan Williamson and Ted Petoskey, Michigan's great flankmen."

Faces Spitz in High Jump Ward will not have to oppose such

Pan-Ams Will Play Saugerties Sunday

Prevented by rain from meeting in their holiday game at Saugerties, Tuesday, the Pan Ams of Kingston and the Bushwicks of Saugerties will have it out Sunday at the local club's diamond in a match that is expected to be fast and interesting. A large turnout of fans is anticipated. Dewey Van Buren likely will start on the pitching mound for the Pan Ams against Finger or Sweet for Saugerties.

Ward just missed making the Olympic team in the high jump last summer, tying for fourth at 6 feet, 5 1/2 inches, an inch short of Spitz and first place.

The Michigan star has cleared over 6 feet 7 inches, however. In addition he has consistently shaded 10 seconds for 100 yards and bettered 15 seconds over the high hurdles.

Meyer Wins Race, That Kills Three

The automobile race at Indianapolis Tuesday was won by Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., who made the 500-mile dash in 4:48.75, averaging 104.162 miles an hour. This speed shattered the 1932 time of Freddy Frame of Los Angeles who made 104.144.

Victory for Meyer yesterday made him the second driver to win the classic twice, the other being Tommy Milton of St. Paul, who triumphed in 1921 and again in 1923. Meyer won his other race in 1928.

Yesterday's race resulted in three deaths: Mark Billman, 27, of Indianapolis, driver; G. L. Jordan, 27, Lafayette, Ind., mechanic, and Lester Spangler, 27, of Los Angeles, driver, competing for the first time in the Indianapolis classic.

There were 100,000 at the race.

CLEARWATER'S COPY OF RARE PAINTING ON VIEW.

There is on exhibition in the window of Lipart's studio on Fair street a copy of Gilbert Stuart's portrait of Washington without the finishing touches given to the original portrait by John Vanderlyn, the great Kingston artist. Attached to the portrait is a photograph of the original painting of Mr. Vernon painted at the time Washington lived in it. Attached to the photograph is a card of admission to the lecture given by Edward Everett, the great Massachusetts Senator and orator, at Cooper Union, New York city, January 29, 1859, in behalf of the effort of the National Woman's Association to raise the money to buy the Mount Vernon estate and preserve it as a national monument, an enterprise in which they succeeded. Among the women of Kingston who were connected with that great and first woman's organization for such a purpose in the United States were Mrs. Abraham Bruyn Hasbrouck, Mrs. Thomas Cornell, Mrs. Henry H. Reynolds, Miss Henrietta Wynkoop, Mrs. Cornelius D. Bruyn, Mrs. James C. Forsyth, Mrs. Jansen, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Cornelius Burhans, Mrs. James W. Baldwin, Mrs. William B. Fitch, Mrs. Thomas Clearwater, Mrs. Isaac Clearwater, Mrs. Charles H. Clearwater, Mrs. James G. Lindsey, Mrs. George W. Ludlum, Mrs. William S. Kenyon, Mrs. Elsie DuBois, Mrs. Peter J. DuBois, Mrs. Jacob Hardenburgh, Mrs. George Waters, Mrs. James S. McIntee, Mrs. Charles McIntee, Mrs. Walter B. Crane. The painting, the photograph and the ticket to the Everett lecture are from Judge Clearwater's collection of Washington Memorabilia.

Identifying Coats
One means of identifying a flock of coats taking flight from the water is the characteristic pattering sound their feet produce upon the surface and the wake they leave behind.

Flying Dutchman Fable
Hooked Up With Piracy

The Flying Dutchman, which is fabled to appear during tempestuous weather off the Cape of Good Hope, is considered an omen of ill luck.

The tradition, as stated by Sir Walter Scott, is "that she was originally a vessel loaded with great wealth, on board of which some horrid act of murder and piracy had been committed; that the plague broke out among the wicked crew, who had perpetrated the crime, and that they sailed in vain from port to port, offering, as the price of shelter, the whole of their ill-gotten wealth; that they were excluded from every harbor for fear of the contagion which was devouring them; and that as a punishment for their crimes, the apparition of the ship continues to haunt those seas in which the catastrophe took place."

According to another story, the Flying Dutchman was a ship whose captain met with contrary winds while trying to round the cape on his return from the East Indies in 1806. Advised to put back, he swore he would round it in spite of God and the devil, even if he strove until judgment day. He was taken at his word, and his ship still struggles in vain against head winds, and brings disaster on all who see her. Captain Marryat's "The Phantom Ship" is founded on this legend.

But Who Goes to Jail?

If a man burns a treatment house to get the insurance on his furniture, that's a crime; if he wrecks the country to keep his $10,000 job, that's politics.

Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc.
(COLONIAL ESSO STATIONS)

CHALLENGES
with a new motor fuel that Guarantees
SMOOTHER PERFORMANCE

IN ANNOUNCING ESSOLENE, which will be on sale June 2nd, the Colonial Beacon Oil Co., Inc., makes the above guarantee with a full understanding of the importance of such a statement. The public is accustomed to fantastic and exaggerated claims in gasoline advertising. It has heard of so many "Super" gasolines—seen so many words piled upon words about "anti-knock" properties, "mileage," "quick-starting," etc., that all such descriptions have, quite properly, come to mean nothing. Colonial Beacon, with its thousands of Esso Stations, recognizes a double responsibility to the public. First, the responsibility of pioneering in improvements and new developments in service to the motoring public, no matter how great the expense. Second, that of selling over its name no product until that product has proved its worth and the validity of every statement made about it. Such is the position we take about Essolene. We stand squarely behind it as a great motor fuel improvement. Automobile engines have improved rapidly in the last few years. Gasoline improvement has not kept pace. Essolene was developed with present motor problems and future motor trends in mind. The result is a fuel in advance of the times, basically superior to all regular priced and, with few exceptions, all premium priced gasolines. Try Essolene on June 2nd. Compare it, in any car, with the performance of any gasoline you have ever used. Essolene will speak for itself. You can supply the superlatives.
